A Freak of a Bullet.

During the Nez Perce Indian war I was running a race with some fifteen or twenty Indians. The goal was a small mound. Whoever reached the mound first could hold it. We had some friends coming on the trail, which passed just at the foot of the mound. The horse I was riding was quite fast. I had got a hundred yards or so ahead of my companion and stopped to take a shot at an Indian. After I had shot I jumped on my horse just as a young fellow came up. We were on the move when he said, "Lew, I'm shot." I asked him if he was hurt badly. He said, "No, I have caught the bullet." "All right," said I, "put it in your pocket."

I let my horse run and soon left him, for I had the trail and the Indians had the grass. I reached the foot of the mound when the nearest Indian was about 150 yards from the foot on his side. The mound was tolerably steep and about 150 feet high. I let my horse climb as fast as he could. When I reached the top I jumped off, and the Indians from the run to get out of the reach of my long range Remington. I opened fire and kept it up as long as they were in sight. When the excitement was over the young fellow showed me where he had been shot.

The ball had just grazed his arm, making a three inch cut about five inches long, and had struck his gun barrel (where it screws into the frame) and had raked a dent on the inside of the barrel as large as a pea; it then glanced and fell into his left hand. The gun was ruined, but it saved his life.

Miss Precision's Explanation.

I was spending a week or two at a quiet but delightful country boarding house, at which there were about a dozen guests, all exceedingly nice people. Among them was a very "superior" young lady of seventeen, who had just been graduated at a certain college of renown, and she was too utterly precise and proper for anything. She was especially strong on words and their uses, and a mispronunciation made her nervous for an hour.

One evening at supper I was telling jokes and asking conundrums. When my turn came I launched that old, but really good question about the barber and the sculptor.

"What is the difference," said I, "between the death of a barber and the death of a sculptor?"
Strange to say, it passed around the table with no "takers," and I had to give the answer myself.

"One curls up and dyes and the other makes faces and busts."

Miss Precision stared at me blankly for a second or two and then turned to her nearest neighbor with this delightful explanation of the joke.

"Oh, yes, one curls up and dyes and the other makes faces and busts!" Detroit Free Press.

The River of Mastodons.

The Society for Revision of Geographical Names have not, to my knowledge, ever considered the advisability of changing the name of Ichitukne river to that of "The River of Mastodons," but it is clear that something should be done in that direction for the little thread of Florida water. Although unpretentious within itself, it is known to learned men the world over as the place where more mastodon remains have been found than anywhere else. Within a distance of less than two miles no fewer than six skeletons of these gigantic extinct animals have been fished from its bed.

One of these skeletons, according to Dr. Koot, is the largest so far found in this or any other country. For years exploring expeditions have made regular trips up and down Ichitukne looking for mastodon bones and teeth in the sands and grappling the bed of the stream with sharpiron hooks with a hope of discovering hidden antediluvian remains beneath the water.—St. Louis Republic.

How Pills are Made.

The process of making pills is extremely rapid and neat. Tur, chloroform, castor oil and oil of eucalyptus are among the favorite ingredients. Thin layers of a certain size, composed of gum, sugar and gelatine are spread out, the oil is then spread on the under layer just as we spread jam on pastry, a second is then put on, the whole adhering after the manner of covered tarts.

The sandwich is placed between two iron plates indented with tiny holes of the size of the pill, two turns are given in a baking oven and out come the pills, each separating itself from its envelope, smooth, compact, firm as shot. Hundreds of thousands are manufactured daily.—Exchange.

Use Your Eyes.

A boy of school-girls about to separate after graduation once surrounded their professor and asked him how they were to make their new life interesting.

STRAW PLAITING.

How the Material is Sorted, and the Method of Plaiting.

The raw straws are purchased by the "straw factors," and they are then treated in the following way: The factor takes a sheaf between his knees, and drawing out the straws by handfuls at a time he cuts off first the wheat ears, next the two upper joints of the straw, these alone being used for plaiting, and ties them into bundles weighing from about eighteen to twenty pounds. These straws are cut into lengths of nine inches, and are then sorted into sizes, the pipes of straws being held in an upright position so that they may fall through holes of a uniform size in a sort of sieve.

These sorted straws are then steamed in fumes of sulphur, which improve their color and luster; they are again finally sorted, when any spotted straws are thrown out to be used in dyed plait, and the remainder are tied into bundles, each containing about as many as two hands will span. The average price of these bundles, according to the fineness of the straw, is about four pence to six pence a bundle, each bundle being calculated to make about three score yards of plait.

The straw thus treated is now ready for plaiting, and is purchased in these bundles from the factor by the plaiters. There are usually one or two factors in each village, who generally, however, pursue some other occupation. The plaiter, having his bundle of straws next proceeds to divide each pipe by means of an instrument (also sold by the factor) into four, five, seven or nine pieces; the point of the instrument being inserted into the pipe of the straw and pulled through it divides it neatly and exactly into the required number of strips. The plaiter next places her bundle of straw strips, usually rolled in paper to prevent soiling, under her left arm and starts her plait, passing each straw first through her lips to moisten it, and thus make it bind better in plaiting.

Every plaiter generally carries two or three straws in her mouth ready for work, for the straws being only nine inches long are soon used up, so the plaiter is constantly inserting fresh straws, the ends of which stand out on one side of the plait while it is being made, but are carefully cut off when the score of yards is finished. The plaiter holds the plait inside toward her breast, and when a sufficient quantity is done carries it rolled around her left arm. Some of the women and older girls are exceedingly rapid workers, and can make over a score of yards of plait during the day, but this is only the result of continuous work, the plait being hardly ever out of their hands. The action of plaiting of course soon becomes purely mechanical, and the plaiter seldom looks at her work unless she is learning a new twist.—Good Words.

Intelligence and Affection.

It may be said that intelligent mankind is naturally subject to affection. Fairists may object that these ideas are antagonistic, since nature is essentially opposed to false hood; but in the human character are many contradictions side by side. Without an effort they agree to differ. Babies must be natural you would think, yet so soon at least as male observers have a chance to study them they are a mass of affection. Simplicity of manners is the fruit of years and hard experience, amiable or the reverse, for years and hard experience kill the ideal.

A busy man has no time to fancy himself somebody else. He is never allowed to forget exactly who he is and what he has in hand. So the real character asserts itself. But you shall see men not busy or not engaged in that hourly struggle with fortune which absorbs the imagination, cherishing ideals to the last. Thus, the likeness of a great noble of the Eighteenth century may be identified in our modern world of peers. An interesting and pleasing likeness it is, too, generally, though the flesh and blood original would be as much an anachronism as an Eighteenth century bishop.—National Observer.

Sealing Wax is Made of Shellac.

In olden times common beeswax was used for sealing envelopes. The wax was mixed with earthy materials to give it consistency. It was difficult to preserve it, however, as even a little heat tended to soften it. Later gum was introduced for this purpose, and then came sealing wax, which is made chiefly of shellac. The sealing wax that comes from India is the purest and is made almost entirely of shellac, vermilion or some other pigment being mixed with it for color. All of the varieties of shellac are translucent; and some of the finer varieties are in sheets as thin as writing paper.—Boston Globe.

Some Police Statistics.

During one year in New York city lodgings were given at various stations to 63,455 women and 78,137 men. The police helped 115 people who were exposed by the heat, 400 sufferers from alcoholism, 170 who attempted suicide, 2 who were kicked by horses, 7 who were bitten by dogs, 19 who were garrotted by gas and 2 who were garrotted from electric shocks. They took to the hospitals over 2,200 people and took home 4,000 more.—New York Sun.

WOOL CARDING.

Great Improvements in the Process in the Past Thirty Years.

Though the system of American wool carding has not changed since 1860, great improvements have been made in the character of the machinery used. In 1860 most of the carding machines were mounted on wooden frames and were of small size, the main cylinders being 40 inches wide and 42 inches in diameter, while now the machines are made with iron frames, with the main cylinders not less than 43 inches in width and diameter, and not infrequently 60 inches in width and 48, 54 or 60 inches in diameter. The tendency is still to larger machines.

During the civil war a few iron doffers and then strippers began to be made, after which the workers were made of iron, to be followed by iron main cylinders. The consequence of these changes has been not only larger but heavier machines. A set of machines formerly weighed about 7,500 pounds; now the weight is double that.

More expensive work is now put into them. The tops of the iron frames are planed and the arches are planed and nicely adjusted to the frames. Worsted carding machinery is now largely built in this country. The worsted card of the best quality consists of what is termed a breast, having several workers on it, and two main cylinders and two large doffers. Sometimes instead of a breast large lickerins are used, agreeable to the opinion of some manufacturers who believe that they are more efficacious in cleaning the stock.

The process of carding since 1860 is much improved in the way of condensing the roving, or roving, as it leaves the finisher card. Tubes are now entirely out of date, and oscillating rub rolls or aprons, or the two in combination, have taken their place. The stock is now removed from the doffer by a noiseless doffer comb, capable of running at a very high speed, instead of being done by a comparatively slow moving comb, operated by a crank and pitman attached to what was termed a quick arbor. The mechanism for self feeding on the first breaker was wholly unknown in 1860. The progress that has been made within this period has been very marked, not only in the carding, but in the spinning process. Perfection of movements automatically effected is constantly the aim of machine builders.—Boston Journal of Commerce.

Disadvantages of Dining Cars.

"Vestibule trains and dinners on cross country lines are a delusion and a purgatory," exclaimed the fat Montana jurist when the irrigationist paused. "In the good old days, you know, the air of the hills was permitted to blow through the coaches. Now the trains are like tunnels without air shafts, and the puffs that come through the windows are unsatisfactory and cinder laden. The vestibule train is all very nice in cold weather, but most of the year it is out of place. And the dining car, too, is a step backward in long distance railroading. Why, we'll be lucky if we get fifteen minutes to stretch our legs at any stopping place between here and the Pacific, and you know, is not at all conducive to comfort or a well regulated system. Yes, sir, the old breakfast, dinner and supper stations, with their rosy cheeked, calicoed attendants, steaming victuals and monotonous breaking clatter, were good things for travelers from a purely physical standpoint. I'll bet you a bit that you'll all agree with me before the taste of the canned goods leaves your palates." At the last station on the line all voted the judge a winner.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

Frank Criticism.

Not many years ago in Paris at the first presentation of a tragedy that had for its closing scene the murder of a Swedish king, which had taken place nearly half a century earlier, all went well till the murder scene came on, when a very dignified old gentleman in the stage box showed signs of strong dissatisfaction and at length called out angrily: "Absurd! they've got it all wrong!" The manager himself heard this plain spoken comment, and being naturally disturbed by so sweeping a condemnation, he sought out the critic, and politely begged to know what fault he had to find with it. "Why, my good sir," cried the old man, with an air of authority, "the whole grouping of the scene is incorrect. You have made them kill the king to the right of the door, whereas we murdered him on the left!"—Harper's.

How Shad Tasted Uncle Abner.

Abner Stone had lived "inland" all his days, and knew all there was to be known about pork and beef as articles of food. His acquaintance with the products of the sea, on the other hand, was very slight. Once, however, when at the seashore, he was introduced to shad and asked how he liked it. "Well," said the old farmer, with a leave attempt at a smile, "I calculate I shall, when I get kinder used to it, mebbe; but it don't seem, just at first, ve know, consid'able like tryin' to eat a paper o' buttered pins!"—San Francisco Argonaut.

CREAM.

Is not a cosmetic the same in which that term is properly used, but permanently beautifies. It creates a soft, smooth, clear, velvety skin, and by daily use gradually makes the complexion several shades whiter. It is a constant protection from the effects of sun and wind, and prevents sun burn and freckles, and blackheads. It will not come while you use it. It cleanses the face far better than soap and water, nourishes and builds up the skin tissue and thus prevents the formation of wrinkles. It gives the freshness, clearness and smoothness of the skin that you find when a little girl. Every lady, young or old ought to use it, as it gives a more youthful appearance to any lady, and that permanently. It contains no lead, no powder or alkali, and is as harmless as dew and as nourishing to the skin as dew is to the flower. Price $1.00, retail drugists and hair-dressers, or at Mrs. Gertrude Graham's establishment, 104 Post Street San Francisco, where she treats ladies for all diseases of the face and figure. SONOMA, SEPTEMBER 17, 1892.

H. H. GRANT - EDITOR

To the Voters of Sonoma and Vallejo Townships.

I am a candidate nominated by the Republican party for the office of Supervisor to represent the first Supervisor district of Sonoma county, and, as you will vote either for or against me at the coming election, I deem it proper at this time to place before you my views in relation to what appears to me will be my duty if elected to that office. I will endeavor to have taxation reduced to the lowest limit consistent with the public welfare. The taxpayer, especially the small property owner, finds these times the taxes he has to meet yearly a burden on his resources and a large percentage of his income has to go for that purpose. The people generally would not object to the present rate of taxation if the public money were expended judiciously, and the public got good, permanent improvements and full value for the money spent. I think it requires constant vigilance and great care by the Board of Supervisors in regard to county property and county expenditures of all kinds. The County farm and indigent list needs to be looked after carefully, as well as Court house and jail expenses and the utmost economy should be exercised consistent with the proper condition of all the county government affairs.

It seems to me that if proper business methods are applied and carried out in our public expenditures throughout Sonoma county that an improved condition of all public matters would result, and consequently would bring about a change in things that would reduce taxes. The condition of roads and bridges is what affects the welfare of the public more than any other thing that the Supervisors have to deal with and under the new road law that comes into force next January the new system to Sonoma county of contract work will have to be tried. I have studied and given this matter a good deal of thought, and I feel that as a road commissioner in this Supervisor district and in full charge of the roads and bridges I could bring about a much improved condition of our highways and at the same time do it with less money than has heretofore been spent yearly on them.

The contract system, if applied as a business-like way, must result in a better condition of our roads, but if cold business methods are not applied things may be worse than they now are. The first year under the new road law will be a very busy one, for your next Supervisor. To get the contract system started and in good working order will require nearly his whole time in traveling around the two Townships and going to every section and corner where there are public roads, for if elected I realize that the office will require me, if I do my whole duty, to go to every corner and section of the two Townships and see for myself the various needs of the whole public. I also realize that a Supervisor should fulfill the duties of that office without fear or favor and that each person and every section should be treated with equal consideration.

You will have to choose a Supervisor from the candidates before you and it is your duty and privilege to consider carefully which candidate you prefer and vote accordingly. If you decide that some other candidate can perform the duties of that office better than I can, then it is your duty not to elect me, but you should elect whom you think is the best man for the place.

The consolation that is in store for the loser is that the winner will have the many troubles and annoyances of the office and the loser will escape them.

Yours respectfully,
T. C. PUTNAM,
Vallejo Township, Sept. 10, 1892.

BOARD OF SUPERVISORS.

Monday, September 12th.

The Board reconvened this date pursuant to adjournment at 10:30 A. M., all members present and Chairman Mead presiding.

Permission was granted to Chas. H. Brunning to disinter the remains of relatives buried on the Brunning ranch in Bennett valley, for the purpose of reintering the same in the Old Fellows Cemetery in Santa Rosa.

Like permission was granted to L. H. Hedrick to disinter the remains of Irene Roberts and reinter the same in the Bennett Valley Cemetery.

Permission was also granted to Anna Lacque to disinter the remains of relatives buried on the Lacque ranch in Bennett Valley, and reinter the same in Laurel Hill Cemetery in Petaluma.

The following road overseer reports were received and placed on file and the accompanying bills allowed: J. E. Kearney, Sonoma, $701.85; J. E. Mallen, Lakeville, $430.05; Geo. M. Hicks, Stewart's Point, $100; H. A. Russel, Fulton, $280.

Supervisor Clark, the road commissioner of the Third district, filed his report, stating that the bridge across Santa Rosa creek near Melita Station had been duly contracted at a cost of $567.65, and was ready for acceptance and public trial. The same was accepted and declared open to the public.

On motion of Supervisor Clark, the sum of $300 was ordered transferred from the county general fund to the Fulton road district fund, to assist in the payment of the Melita bridge.

The sum of $131.51 was transferred from the Santa Rosa road district fund for the same purpose.

BALETTI ET AL VS. SPARKS ET AL.

Verdict of a Stupid Jury.

The civil suit of P. Baletti and R. Quattrapoli vs. G. W. Sparks, F. Mattucci and Vannucci, to recover $762.95, the value of a quantity of merchandise and $500 damages, was tried before Judge Dougherty and a jury in Santa Rosa this week.

The plaintiffs were represented by attorney John Rodgers of Petaluma, and lawyer M. B. Harrison of Vacaville, while the defense was conducted by attorney's Spilvalo of San Francisco and A. B. Ware of Santa Rosa. The jury after listening to the evidence and the arguments of the learned counsel, brought in a verdict for the defendants.

The plaintiffs will immediately move for a new trial, failing in which the case will be appealed to the Supreme Court.

The verdict was a surprise to every body in Sonoma acquainted with the facts of the case.

A meeting of citizens was held in the City Pavilion last Monday afternoon to discuss the proposition to erect chemical works in this place. The meeting was addressed by Mr. E. K. Stevenot. It is proposed to raise $75,000 by subscription to start the works, which it is claimed will prove a profitable investment.

DR. PRICE'S BAKING POWDERS

Supplying the Army, Navy and Indian Department.

The purchasing agents of the United States Government have ordered nearly one hundred thousand pounds of Dr. Price's Baking Powder in the first five months of this year, 1892.

The government exercises great care in selecting its supplies of all kinds, rejecting everything that is not of the best, and the very fact that it has adopted Dr. Price's Baking Powder is a proof that it has found it the best of all the baking powders. Dr. Price's is peculiarly adapted for export, as neither long sea voyages nor climate changes affect it, this brand keeping fresh and sweet for years while other baking powders deteriorate rapidly.

It is guaranteed to the government to be a pure cream of tartar powder free from ammonia, alum or other harmful substances, and it is also the only baking powder prepared by a physician of high standing.

A PROFITABLE TALK.

OUR SPECIAL REPORTER SECURES THE FACTS.

He determined to Thoroughly Investigate a Subject that is Causing Much Comment, and He Has Succeeded.

(N. Y. Sun)

Two days ago one of the most prominent professional men in New York published a letter so outspoken, so unusual as to cause extensive talk and awaken much comment. Yesterday I interviewed the gentleman as to the contents of the letter, and he fully confirmed it in every respect. He not only did this but he also mentioned a number of unusual cases which had come under his observation in which little less than a miracle had been performed.

So important has the entire subject become, that I determined to investigate it to the bottom, and accordingly called upon Mr. Albert G. Eaves, the prominent oculist at No. 83 East Twelfth street, the gentleman mentioned in my interview with the doctor yesterday.

Mr. Eaves has made quite a name. A complete knowledge of history, an appreciation of art and reliability are essential in his profession.

"Mr. Eaves," I said, "I learn that your wife has had a most unusual experience. Are you willing to describe it?"

The gentleman thought a moment and an expression of pleasure passed over his face. "When I think," he said, "of what my wife once passed through and the condition she is in to-day, I cannot but feel grateful. Nearly three years ago she was at the point of death. You can understand how sick she was when I say she was totally blind and lay in a bed, unable to move. Three doctors attended her and all agreed that her death was only a question of hours, perhaps minutes."

"May I ask what the doctors called her trouble?"

"Chorea and puerperal convulsions," so you can imagine how badly she must have been. At last one doctor (it was Dr. R. A. Gage) said that as she was still able to swallow one more attempt might be made and a medicine was accordingly given her. She seemed to improve at once; in a few days her sight was restored. I have had a long, long sleep, she said, upon recovering consciousness, and I am rejoiced to say that she was restored to perfect health wholly through the use of Warner's Safe Cure, which was the remedy we administered when she was past recovery."

I looked at Mr. Eaves as he said this. His face was beaming with satisfaction. He continued:

"The physician told us, after my wife's recovery, that she could never endure childbirth, and yet we have a fine boy nearly a year old, and do not know what sickness is. I attribute it all to the wonderful power of Warner's Safe Cure. Why, my sister, who resides in Virginia, was awhile ago afflicted precisely as my wife had been. I at once advised her to use this same great remedy; it cured her promptly."

"You find that it is specially adapted for women, do you?" I inquired.

"By no means. I have known it to be wonderful in its power in the case of gentlemen to whom I have recommended it. I speak from my experience entirely, and you should not be surprised that I am so firm a believer in this discovery, which has done so much for me."

I was not surprised. I saw by every word, by every look, that Mr. Eaves meant all he said. I had ample confirmation of Dr. Gage's letter and interview, and I do not wonder that people who have seen such things, who have watched their dearest friends go down into the dark valley and be brought back into the light, should be both enthusiastic and grateful. I myself, caught the spirit, and I shall be glad if the investigations I have made prove of profit to those who may read them.

To Preserve

The richness, color, and beauty of the hair, the greatest care is necessary, much harm being done by the use of worthless dressings. To be sure of having a first-class article, ask your druggist for Ayer's Hair Vigor. It is absolutely superior to any other preparation of the kind. It restores the original color and fullness to hair which has become thin, faded, or gray. It keeps the scalp cool, moist, and free from dandruff. It heals itching humors, prevents baldness, and imparts to

BURGLARY.

On Friday night of last week burglars forced an entrance into three rooms in the Union Hotel. In one of the rooms the midnight marauder secured $9 from the pants pocket of the sleeping guest. In another room a pair of pants was secured in which was $2 in silver, a small purse containing four $5 gold pieces, a watch and chain and a pocket knife. He left the room with the pants and repaired to the toilet to examine the garment. The burglar evidently became frightened off upon reaching the toilet, as he only abstracted the $2 in silver and knife, leaving the pants behind, which were found the next morning in a washing basket in the toilet room, the $20 in gold and watch and chain being left in the pockets of the pants. Upon entering the third room the crook made sufficient noise to awake the sleeping inmate and was frightened off before he had secured any booty. No clue to the robber has been obtained. He was evidently a professional, as all the rooms entered were securely locked on the inside, and in gaining access to the rooms little or no noise was made.

A Popular Nominee.

J. C. Sims, the Democratic nominee for Assemblyman of the Seventeenth district, visited Sonoma and vicinity last Wednesday. During his brief stay he made many friends among the people.

Mr. Sims is in every way qualified for the position which the people have requested him to accept. For this is clearly a case of where the office has sought the man and not the man the office. Mr. Sims is a rising young lawyer of Santa Rosa and is possessed of abilities of no mean order. If elected he will make an upright and honest legislator. The nomination of Mr. Sims is one of the most popular that the Democrats have ever made in this county and, notwithstanding the old cry of a U. S. Senator to be elected, which is about played out after the disgraceful practices of the last Legislature, Mr. Sims will receive a hearty support from many Republicans of Sonoma Township.

Death of Wm. J. Ellis.

Another pioneer of Sonoma Valley passed to the mysterious beyond last Tuesday. Wm. J. Ellis, who located in this valley over a quarter of a century ago, died at his home on the Napa road, five miles southeast of Sonoma from the effects of a stroke of apoplexy. The deceased had long been a resident of this valley where he was greatly respected as a friend and neighbor. Mr. Ellis was a native of Wales, and had attained the ripe old age of 74 years. W. W. Ellis and Thos. Ellis of this place are sons of deceased. The funeral took place Thursday, the remains being followed to their last resting place in Mountain Cemetery by many friends and neighbors.

CITY TAXES.

The Year's Levy Placed at 20 Cents on the $100 of Valuation.

The City Trustees met last Monday for the purpose of making the tax levy for 1892. A full Board was present.

Trustee Litzius advocated the appropriation of $1000 for improvements on the Plaza, the greater part of the sum to be expended in tearing down the old concern which is known as the City Pavilion, and erecting in its stead a decent building for the use of the city officers and for housing the fire apparatus. Trustee Schocken favored the beautifying of the Plaza by widening and rolling down the walks so that no weeds could grow on the same and the planting of lawn grass to be kept green by moveable sprinklers.

Trustee Weyl advocated the tearing down of the old Pavilion and the erection of a two-story building in its stead.

Trustees Trudgen and Seipp expressed themselves as being in favor of allowing a few hundred dollars to be expended on the Plaza, but that the greater part of the city's income should be expended on the streets.

After the Trustees had fully expressed themselves in regard to the various contemplated city improvements Trustee Seipp introduced the following resolution which was knocked in the head by the votes of Trustees Litzius, Schocken and Weyl:

Resolved—That the rate of taxes in the city of Sonoma for the year 1892, is hereby ordered to be and is fixed at 20 cents for the General Fund upon each $100 of taxable property within said city as equalized by the Board of Equalization. The City Clerk is hereby directed to apportion the said tax upon the assessment roll of said year and to make out and deliver to the City Collector a tax list in the usual form and take his receipt therefor.

The resolution being lost by the votes of the above mentioned Trustees, Trustee Litzius moved that the rate be placed at 20 cents on the $100 of valuation.

Upon being put to vote Trustees Seipp and Trudgen voted no and Trustees Litzius, Schocken and Weyl aye.

The wise men then adjourned.

The Sham and the Real.

Every good thing has its imitators, every genuine article its counterfeits. The Ammonia and Alum Baking Powders sold over the counters are no more like Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder, than the paste is like the real diamond, or a counterfeit is like one of the old master's genuine paintings.

When greedy and merciless manufacturers claim their adulterated and harmful baking powders are as good as Dr. Price's, they know they are not telling the truth. These people know they are destroying the stomachs and the complexion of the consumers, and there are many grocers recommending such powders over their counters—knowing same to be injurious and worthless—simply to make a large profit.

Dr. Price, a conscientious physician, has spent a lifetime in perfecting and popularizing his Cream Baking Powder, the only Pure Cream Tartar Powder now to be obtained.

Multitudes of imitators all over the land have sprung up, not to imitate the purity of Price's Cream Baking Powder, but to see how cheap they could make their counterfeits and hoodwink the public.

Some use Ammonia and others Alum, but all these shams cry in chorus, "Buy this, its just as good as Dr. Price's and much cheaper."

Price's Cream Baking Powder is the standard for purity and perfection the world over, and is beyond comparison. Dr. Price stands for Pure Food and a foe to all shams.

A very pleasant party was given to Miss Josie Kiser at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Anton Kiser, last Saturday night. Quite a number of friends and relatives were present. Dancing was begun at 8 o'clock and continued until twelve, when a splendid supper was served. After supper dancing was resumed and kept up until six o'clock in the morning, when the young folks all departed for their homes. The ball room was beautifully decorated with flowers and evergreens. Music was furnished by one of the best accordion players, P. Leimaker. The grand march was led by Annie Fisher and Jacob Kiser. Among those present were, Mr. and Mrs. Anton Kiser, Misses Josie Kiser, Nannie Reibell, Jessie Enfield, Christina Miller, Josie Fisher, Annie Fisher, Mary Reibell, Clara Wilson and Tillie Furter of San Francisco. SONOMA, SATURDAY, SEPT. 17, 1892.

BUYING SHIRTS.

And the Dear Girl Was Rather Mixed as to the Size.

She was a stylish looking girl; the word aristocrat seemed to be indelibly stamped upon every line of her classic face and seemed to fairly stick out from every seam of her Paris made gown as she swung into one of the largest dry goods establishments on Fulton street one hot day and inquired in a jolly, untroubled way to one of your class way to the floorwalker near the door the direction to the men's fixings department.

The floorwalker preceded her to the counter, and calling out "Forward one" left her in charge of a dapper little clerk, who twisted his baseball moustache in a way which was meant to simply paralyze the young woman, but which only served to annoy her.

"I would like to see some of the latest things in negligee shirts," she said in an icy tone, which sent a shiver down the back of the dapper little clerk and made him feel as though the mercury had taken a sudden drop of about 20 to 30 degrees.

"What size, please?" he inquired in a deferential tone.

"Let me see," mused the aristocratic young woman; "I think about thirty-six will do."

"What?" exclaimed the dapper clerk, forgetting to twist his moustache in his excitement.

"I said thirty-six," replied the young woman in a decided tone, which was meant to crush the dapper little clerk completely.

"But—er, there are no shirts made as large as that, miss," said the clerk apologetically. "Do you want them for a very large man?"

"What business is it of yours for whom I want them?" replied the stylish girl quickly. "You are paid to wait on the customers, and not to ask impertinent questions."

The atmosphere about the dapper little clerk seemed to get very close, and the thermometer resumed business at the old stand as the stylish girl glared at him after her last remark.

"I am very sorry, but there must be some mistake," said the young looking little salesman. "The largest size in negligee shirts is nineteen inches."

"Very well," said the aristocratic looking girl loftily. "Perhaps there is some mistake. I'll ascertain and will be back again later."

She went immediately to the woman's parlor, and taking out a tape measure stood in front of a looking glass, and running the tape carefully around under her arms and over her well rounded bosom looked at it and frowned as she remarked to herself: "The impudence of that man!"

"I knew it was correct, and they must have shirts of that size. Gracious! I'm not nearly as big as papa, and he wears that kind."

Down she went in triumph to the men's fixings and encountered the small sized clerk, who had resumed his smirk and moustache twisting, but stopped it as soon as he saw the young woman approaching.

"I knew I was correct," she said defiantly. "Thirty-six is the size, and you must have them."

"Well," said the little clerk in desperation, "I will show you the largest size we have in stock, and he hauled down a box of 19-inch shirts and spread one of them on the counter before the young woman, who looked at him in amazement.

"Oh, I'm sure that's too big!" she said pettishly, pointing up her lovely lips, and drawing forth the tape measure she laid it across the bosom, while the smart little clerk smiled a knowing smile to himself as he caught on.

The tape measure showed that the shirt measured forty-eight inches around the chest, and the young lady looked at the clerk in a flayed way.

"What did you mean by saying that nineteen inches was the largest size you kept? Why, this shirt is almost fifty inches!"

"But," responded the clerk in his most suave manner, "that is not the way shirts are measured, miss; they are always sold by the size of the collar."

A warm flush spread over the stylish girl's face as she realized her mistake, and she even condescended to smile upon the clerk, who was by this time feeling on very good terms with himself.

"Oh, I must have gotten my shopping list mixed," she said sweetly, "and I think a—about 14—will be about the size. You may send me three of the prettiest patterns you have, and be sure send them to night, as my brother is going away to the country tomorrow."—Exchange

Consumption of Pills in France.

The consumption of pills through out the length and breadth of France is said to be enormous, and it was a happy thought of a certain successful pillmaker to have recourse to machinery. He made a handsome for fame and his descendants are no less prosperous. The hardness of the times has no effect upon the pill making industry.

Folks will have their pet luxury at any sacrifice, and whilst ready to trench in dress, housekeeping and other matters they never forgo their pill. One middle class lady in delicate health used to spend annually a thousand francs—say $200—for this luxury.

"German Syrup"

Here is an incident from the South—Mississippi, written in April, 1890, just after the Grippe had visited that country. "I am a farmer, one of those who have to rise early and work late. At the beginning of last winter I was on a trip to the City of Vicksburg, Miss., where I got well drenched in a shower of rain. I went home and was soon after seized with a dry, hacking cough. This grew worse every day, until I had to seek relief. I consulted Dr. Dixon, who has since died, and he told me to get a bottle of Bosche's German Syrup. Meantime my cough grew worse and worse and then the Grippe came along and I caught that very severely. My condition then compelled me to do something. I began using them, and before taking much of the second bottle I was entirely clear of the Cough that had hung to me so long, the Grippe, and all its bad effects. I felt that way, and have felt that way ever since."
